- b) Für Länder des Nahen Osten gilt es als Hilfestellung, eine neue Ordnung nach den derzeitigen Revolutionen zu erstellen. Siehe auch den DIdI-Download „gerechte Herrschaft“.

Das ISSIR soll seine Forschungsergebnisse in einem 2 mal im Jahr erscheinenden Online-Journal veröffentlichen. The Journal shall appear in English/Arabic.

3.1 Concepts for Middle East Countries

Summary of some Research Books of DIdI (Fiqh II (Wirtschaftrecht), Staatsrecht, Technology Policy), Translation to English and Arabic, publishing in the 1st Edition of the OnlineJournal.

3.1.1 Technology Policy

Fundamentals of Technology Policy

- Our commitment toward the developing countries -

A. Motivation: why is it wise to invest in the developing countries?

1. From the point of view of the strong in the world: Global justice leads to peace. Vacation abroad will be safer. Citizen of the rich countries will not be met with hostility.

2. From humanitarian point of view: Fighting of poverty, human grief and suppression

B. Technological and political basics

1. The 3 columns of the technological-economical system of a country: Education, Industry, Research (Fig.1)

2. Factors of influence and fields in the technological-political domain (economic, law, order, social factors,...)(Fig.2)

3. Key technologies, key economical branches for the technological and political independence of a country (Fig.3)

4. Analysis of the current situation in the developing countries. What is missing? What should be tackled first?

C. Some current activities in the field of the developing aid

C1. By the rich countries:

1. sincere development aid (for exmaple from nongovernmental organisations)

2. often a continuation of the colonial exploitation policy (mainly from the side of the USA less from the side of some european countries) or an intension to intensify their influence(for example missionary schools, scholarships from church organisations)

C.2 Results from congresses held by intellectuals and scientists whose origins are from the developing countries:

1. Not every thing that comes from the west is good. (the unlimited belief in the never ending progress of the west has been broken, even in the west, since Cuba crisis (Beginning of the 60ies))

2. The first Step is an organisation of scientists and businessmen who have personal contact to the developing countries (scientists and trade organisation)

3. This organisation should start locally(no huge travel expenses)

C.3 To be done now:

- Research Centers
- Technology parks for start up companies
